

Approval By Committee Of Big War Fund

Hundreds of Millions For Expanded Army

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—The senate appropriations committee approved today an unprecedented $32,762,737,000 defense fund, an increase of $691,836,000 over the amount which had been voted by the house.

The committee increases include $596,836,000 for clothing and equipment for an expanded army and $95,000,000 which committee members said was to provide warehousing for lend-lease goods.

At the request of farm bloc members, the committee approved a restriction which would require any cotton purchases by the government to be made on the open market.

This was designed, members said, to prevent use of government held cotton surpluses at prices below the market for manufacture of cotton clothing and other army equipment.

Speedy senate passage of the mammoth military bill, carrying more than $23,000,000,000 for the war department, $5,430,000,000 for lease-lend activities and $3,852,000,000 for merchant ship construction, seemed likely to point up a busy week in congress.

Taking time out for the reading in both houses today of George Washington's farewell address, the legislators looked ahead to a program of heavy work, starting tomorrow.

The no-longer controversial issue of repealing congressional pension legislation was due for consideration before the house, with the prospect that the vote there might exceed proportionately the senate's 75 to 5 ballot for the repealer.

Scheduled for debate also was a general war powers bill, a measure to provide government insurance against war property damage, and a bill to set up a women's auxiliary force to aid the army in home defense tasks.

Continuation of the life of the Dies committee investigating unamerican activities also was regarded as likely.

In the senate, the farm bloc had the right of way for consideration, probably tomorrow, of a measure to ban the sale of government-held surplus farm crops when sales might depress commodity prices.

Sixteen Perish As Boat Sank

NEWPORT, Ky., Feb. 23.—(P)—Rivermen struggled today to recover the bodies of 16 persons from the splintered towboat G. W. McBride, smashed against a stone bridge pier in the swollen Ohio river before dawn Sunday.

The partly submerged wreckage lay near midstream, pinned to the pier by treacherous currents which caused the Ohio's worst tragedy in more than 20 years. The bridge connects Cincinnati and northern Kentucky.

Most of the victims—believed to be 13 men and three women—were asleep in their crew bunks when the Ohio River company's 170-foot boat crashed as it was towing four loaded coal barges and a fuel flat.

"She went down just about as fast as it takes you to climb from the first to the second floor," said Ernest Easter, 37-year-old deck hand.

He was one of five crewmen rescued.

The McBride was backing off when she hit the pier broadside. "The first crash was rather light," Engineer R. W. Hineman said, "then someone gave the distress whistle and the captain said: 'My God, boys, there is something wrong—this is serious' and ran from the table. I ran from the kitchen and heard one of the ladies say:

"It's a-sinking boys, get out if you can."

"I ran to the back of the boat x x x and climbed out in water up to my waist on the other side."

Cut loose, the four barges floated downstream where one sank, two were picked up by the towboat Peace and another was beached.

Churchill In Shakeup of His Cabinet

Sir James Grigg Is Named As War Minister

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(P)—The most drastic overhauling that Prime Minister Churchill has given his line-up of ministers since becoming Britain's war leader in 1940—and his second big shake-up in four days—still left some of his critics unconvinced today that he really had cleared the national political decks for action.

Except for surprise and general approval caused by selection of Sir James Grigg as war minister, the first reaction to the broad changes was that Churchill merely had reshuffled his cabinet but had not cut out the deadwood.

Like Friday's streamlining of the inner war cabinet, it was a concession to wide demands for new, imaginative direction to replace non-productive ministers but Churchill was expected to find the House of Commons, restless over Britain's recent setbacks, still in critical mood when the war debate opens this week.

Reduced To Seven.

The new war cabinet, which Churchill previously had trimmed from nine to seven members, including newly-appointed Sir Stafford Cripps, was unaffected by these changes:

War Minister—in Sir James Grigg; out, H. D. R. Morgeson.

Aircraft Production Minister—in, J. J. Llewellyn; out, J. W. T. Moore-Brabazon.

Colonial Secretary—in, Viscount Cranborne; out, Lord Moyne.

Minister of Works and Public Buildings—in, Lord Portal; out, Lord Reith.

In further revisions, Churchill picked Hugh Dalton to replace Llewellyn as president of the board of trade and appointed Lord Wolmer to replace Dalton as minister of economic warfare. Greenwood's office lapsed.

Churchill apparently wielded the axe without political impartiality, for of the five men discarded three were from his own conservative party, Greenwood was a laborite and Lord Reith had no affiliation.

Since Greenwood's post, the only one eliminated, was related primarily to post-war reconstruction there may be some satisfaction in the realignment for those who have demanded that the cabinet be devoted entirely of the idea of winning the war.

The first reactions, however, were lukewarm at best.

On To Victory Stalin Urges Red Armies

Uses Generalities In Telling Of Gains Achieved

By the Associated Press
Joseph Stalin, voicing regret that Russia has no allies in the fighting line with Red army, urged his millions of soldiers and civilians today to fight on to "complete victory" in their "war of liberation."

In an order commemorating Red Army Day, the premier-defense commissar told his people that the way would be hard.

The Germans, he said, have allies fighting beside them while "so far we have not been in that position."

There is, however, a small RAF unit fighting from Russian bases and a large Polish army is being organized on Soviet soil.

To outward appearances, at least, Russia and Japan were still on good diplomatic terms. A report from Kuibyshev said that the Japanese and Russians were still dicker over renewal of Russian fishing concessions in Pacific waters. The present agreement expired Dec. 31.

In the Central Mediterranean, the British announced, a naval plane scored a torpedo hit Saturday night on an enemy tanker. There was a large flash, suggesting that the ship was destroyed.

While the world waited for an anticipated official survey of the Red army's present positions on this 24th anniversary of the Red army's organization the day drew toward a close with little to fill that expectation.

Sink Many Ships

The Moscow radio declared that the Red navy had sunk 81 warships and 276 auxiliary vessels carrying hundreds of tanks and guns and tens of thousands of shells in the first seven of the eight months that Germany and Russia have been at war. But no further resume of fighting was at once forthcoming.

Customarily, the Soviet information bureau, clearing house for the Red army's communiques, (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

Completely Out With The OGD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today she had severed all connections with the Office of Civilian Defense but, without elaboration, added that her experience as assistant director had not made her forewear taking public office.

Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh, S. C., editor of the News and Observer, will succeed her as head of the volunteer participation branch now being set up in OGD, Mrs. Roosevelt said. His two main assistants will be Mary Dublin and Hugh Jackson of New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt gave out a statement at her press conference expressing her views of the objectives of OGD.

At almost the same time Senators Tydings (D-Md.) and Clark (D-Mo.) introduced legislation to abolish the OGD and transfer its functions to the War Department, with administration of Civilian Defense carried out by an army officer under direction of the secretary of war.

Mrs. Roosevelt told her press conference that the wife of a president can't take a job in the government and be accepted as a person because it is so difficult for other people in and out of the government to disassociate her from the influence her husband might have.

In 1934 he robbed banks in Hope, Camden and Smackover, Ark., and was captured in a gun fight at his Mississippi home. While serving a 15-year term at the Cummins, Ark., prison farm in 1936, he took a pistol from the warden's office and escaped.

Moving into Texas he was wounded and taken in the Atlanta holdup, only to escape seven months later.

Panama Tanker Is Torpedoed

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Feb. 23.—(P)—The Panamanian tanker Thalia was torpedoed today near the Moncos Islands about 100 miles from the Dutch Caribbean Island of Aruba, Aneta news agency reported. It said three lifeboats carrying members of the tanker's crew were sighted about 50 miles off the Moncos Island.

Murray To Be Freed On Parole

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 23.—(P)—Matthew S. Murray, former state WPA administrator, now in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., on an income tax evasion conviction, is scheduled to be released on parole Sunday.

The U. S. district attorney's office here said the parole was granted by the federal board of paroles following a hearing at the prison.

Murray, who served as Kansas City public works director at the same time he directed the Missouri WPA, was committed to prison March 20, 1941, after having been convicted by Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves, who passed on the evidence without a jury. He was sentenced to two years.

Bullets End A Crime Career

Contractor Who Turned Robber Is Slain In South

MERIDIAN, Miss., Feb. 23.—(P)—The bullet-riddled body of Charles Irving Chapman, 43, lay in a morgue here today, marking the end of the crime trail of the one-time, well-to-do highway contractor who turned bank robber.

He was listed as Public Enemy No. 1 by the New York office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in 1939 after two prison breaks and a record of crime in seven states ranging from Texas, Louisiana and Florida to New Jersey.

Chapman fell last night on a highway near his Philadelphia, Miss., home as he tried to shoot his way out of a trap set by Percy Wyly II, head of the FBI in Mississippi, state and county officers and Meridian city police.

A companion, Alfred Ward of Meshoba county, was driving Chapman's car, Wyly said, and surrendered when they ran into the blocked highway. Chapman opened fire and went down under a hail of bullets.

Chapman had been hunted ever since he escaped from the Texas state penitentiary at Huntsville on July 8, 1937, in a bloody break that he led. He was serving a 60-year term for an Atlanta, Tex., bank robbery.

Escaped Under Fire

Mississippi and Louisiana peace officers set a trap for him near his home more than two years ago, but he came out shooting and escaped through a stream of machine-gun fire.

Officers learned that he shot a Meridian officer about two months ago and had been on his trail constantly.

Chapman turned criminal during the depression after he had made thousands of dollars as a contractor in Arkansas only to lose it in Florida.

After escaping charges in Florida and New Jersey in 1931, Chapman was convicted of robbing a bank at Minden, La., a year later. He escaped soon after beginning a 14-year term.

In 1934 he robbed banks in Hope, Camden and Smackover, Ark., and was captured in a gun fight at his Mississippi home.

While serving a 15-year term at the Cummins, Ark., prison farm in 1936, he took a pistol from the warden's office and escaped.

Moving into Texas he was wounded and taken in the Atlanta holdup, only to escape seven months later.

Draft Drawing Be March 17

Be Applicable To The Men Who Recently Enrolled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—The nation's new draft lottery was fixed today for March 17—St. Patrick's day.

And there will be green capsules to hold the numbers that will decide the order in which between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 more men will be subject to call for possible military service.

Lull Comes To Bitter Fighting In Philippines

Two of Staff of Gen. MacArthur Are Decorated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—The War Department reported today that fighting had died down in the Philippines, both on the Bataan peninsula and in the duel between the Manila bay forts and Japanese shore batteries.

A communique said there was practically no enemy air or ground activity in the past twenty-four hours on the peninsula, and that firing between the harbor defenses and the siege batteries had entirely ceased.

There was no explanation either in the communique or from military officials.

Three weeks have elapsed since General Douglas MacArthur's outnumbered defending army fought to a halt the latest full scale enemy offensive.

The communique said that on recommendation of MacArthur, President Manuel Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth had awarded the Distinguished Service Star of the Philippines to Major General Richard K. Sutherland, chief of staff, and Brigadier General Richard J. Marshall, deputy chief of staff, of General MacArthur's forces.

The decoration is the highest of the commonwealth. The two officers are now holding key posts in the Bataan defense, served as members of the American military mission which devised the original strategy for defense of the islands.

Fight From Atop Tanks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—Fierce Igorot tribesmen who fought from the swaying tops of American tanks in a battle of annihilation with the Japanese invaders have contributed a stirring new chapter to the Philippine defense epic.

They completely wiped out an entire enemy regiment, General Douglas MacArthur reported, in avenging the death of a company of their own kinsmen.

"For sheer breath-taking and heart-stopping desperation," the Philippines commander told the War Department that the exploit was unmatched in the struggle on the Bataan peninsula.

The action, which took place early this month, was recounted in a communique. The Igorots are a pagan tribe living in the mountains of northern Luzon. Industrious and peace loving, they are

Shuffle New Cards

Between now and March 17, local draft boards will shuffle the new cards and then number them T-1, T-2, T-3, etc., the initial "T" designating the third registration.

Officials estimate that between 8,000 and 9,000 numbers will be drawn in the lottery as many as the greatest number of men newly registered in any one local draft district.

The latest registrants will be placed at the end of the existing local draft lists, and will not be subject to call until the local boards reach the end of their existing lists.

Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, authorized the publication of order numbers and names in communities. "Such publication," he said, "will not reveal exactly the total number of registrants enrolled throughout the nation in the February registration—in information which is still restricted by the war department."

Some Due For An Awakening

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, told the house agriculture committee today the attitude of farmers in not seeking draft deferment was one of the major causes of a threatened farm labor shortage.

He asserted that "thousands" of persons working in shipyards and airplane factories under the impression they would be deferred because of an essential occupation "are in for a rude awakening."

Many of these workers, Hershey explained, can be replaced more easily than can farm labor.

The committee, beginning a study of the farm labor problem, was told by the selective service head that one of the tasks confronting him was to get across to local draft boards the necessity of not too heavily exhausting the farm labor rolls in their counties.

Too often, he said, farmers themselves hesitate to appeal a local board's classification because of fear such action might be considered unpatriotic.

"One of the hardest men you have to convince that he is a specialist is the farmer," he told the committee. "Farmers are patriotic. They don't try to get exemptions."

Hershey suggested that agricultural representatives on local appeal boards be more active in investigating cases and in objecting to classifications that might drain away labor necessary on farm work.

The Alexander Hamilton Down Off Iceland Coast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—The Coast Guard Cutter Alexander Hamilton has been torpedoed by an enemy submarine off Iceland, the Navy announced today.

While being towed into port the navy said, the ship capsized and had to be sunk by gun fire.

The navy said the loss of life was "moderate" but gave no specific figures.

The Alexander Hamilton was built in 1937 at New York and was 327 feet long and of 2,141 gross tons.

She had a speed of 20 knots. James fighting ships credited vessels of her general class with two or three five-inch 51 caliber guns plus anti-aircraft guns.

Her cruising radius was 8,000 miles at 12.5 knots and 12,300 miles at 11 knots.

The text of the navy's communique (No. 43), outlining the naval situation based on reports up to 8 a. m. Eastern War Time, today, follows:

"Atlantic area:

"The Coast Guard Cutter Alexander Hamilton was torpedoed by an enemy submarine off Iceland. While being towed into port the ship capsized and had to be sunk by gunfire.

"Loss of Personnel which occurred when the ship was torpedoed was moderate. Next of kin of those lost have been notified.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

Place Restrictions On Fishing Craft

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23.—(P)—The United States Coast Guard today notified the owners of commercial fishing, charter and private vessels to keep their craft in the Miami river and Biscayne bay.

No reason for the order was made public.

Chief Boatswain Mate C. C. Wyatt, aide to Lieut. P. L. Stinson, captain of the port, said the order would remain in effect until further notice.

The Alexander Hamilton Down Off Iceland Coast

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Feb. 23.—(P)—A Japanese merchant ship of more than 10,000 tons was set afire and other ships were machinegunned in a new raid by allied bombers on Bangka strait off Sumatra, the United Nations headquarters announced today.

The ships were attacked by dive bombers, a United Nations communique said of the action, roughly 250 miles, northwest of Batavia.

"A number of fighter patrols and reconnaissance flights" were carried out, the communique added. "Two of our reconnaissance aircraft which were attacked by 17 Japanese navy (zero type) fighters evaded them in the clouds and successfully completed their tasks."

BANDOENG, N.E.I., Feb. 23.—(P)—Dutch and American air and naval forces destroyed and scattered the entire Japanese invasion fleet which attacked Bali last week, but some of the invaders have succeeded in getting ashore, overrunning part of the island and seizing the airport at Denpasar, the Dutch announced today.

A communique of the Netherlands Indies armed forces declared, however, that the Japanese who had landed through a hail of bombs from American and Dutch air forces were isolated now from supplies and reinforcements.

"Not a single warship or transport remained near Bali to give the Japanese troops support of supplies" after big formations of American four-motored bombers, dive bombers and fighters, and Dutch and American cruisers and destroyers attacked the Japanese armada, the communique said.

One Vessel Escapes
A statement issued by the Netherlands Indies government said "A single ship which succeeded in escaping destruction has fled."

The size of the destroyed and scattered Japanese force was not announced. The United States War Department in Washington said last Saturday, however, that its air forces twice attacked one Japanese naval formation consisting of two cruisers, four or five destroyers and four transports.

Still it appeared probable that other formations of warships and transports also were attacked.

A United Nations communique said allied dive bombers set a Japanese merchantman of more than 10,000 tons afire with direct hits in the Strait of Bangka off

Ceiling Is Placed On Used Egg Cases

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—In an effort to head off possible sharp increases in egg prices, the Office of Price Administration today issued a temporary price ceiling on used egg cases, effective immediately, which established maximums at the level of those prevailing between Feb. 17 and Feb. 21.

The order forestalled proposed increases in the price of cases set for today by some dealers which would have been reflected in egg quotations.

About three times as many eggs are shipped in used cases as in new ones.

The maximum prices were established for the eastern area and the mid-continent area. In the eastern area number 1 cases may not sell for more than 22 cents each; number 2 cases, 17 cents each and number 3 cases 12 cents each. The mid-continent are four cents higher in each class.

Arkansas, Kansas and Missouri are in the mid-continent area.

Destroy or Scatter Invasion Fleet Of Japanese At Bali

Sumatra, 250 miles northwest of Batavia, and machine gunned other large ships in that vicinity. Among other widespread aerial operations, the communiqué said two reconnaissance planes escaped from 17 Japanese naval planes and "successfully completed their tasks."

Four Japanese planes were declared shot down and a fifth badly damaged during Japanese attacks yesterday on Java airfields.

Allied bombers also heavily attacked the airdrome at Denpasar on southeastern Bali which the Japanese had occupied, the communiqué said.

"The magnificent successes of the allied sea and air forces justify the belief that the conquest of Bali means to the Japanese as large a pyrrhic victory as the conquest of burning homes at Tarakan, Balikpapan and Palembang," the government statement said, referring to the great property destruction by the Dutch at those productive oil centers of Borneo and Sumatra before their capture by the Japanese.

"Owing to the strong action by the allied air and sea forces it can be assumed that the fleet which the Japanese sent out for the conquest of Bali has for the greater part been destroyed or badly damaged."

It said that at present, however, it was impossible to give further particulars of that state of affairs on Bali.

Previously, however, strong resistance had been reported on that 100-mile long island which flanks Java to the east.

Denpasar, the seized airport, is at the southeastern corner of the island, and is near the only favorable harbor of the island. Rich rice lands extend along the Alluvial coastal plain westward from Denpasar, but the capital, Singaraja, on the north coast, is separated from the flat area by a lofty mountain range.

Resist In Sumatra
Bitter delaying resistance also continued in Sumatra, on the west flank of Java, but today's communiqué for the first time officially confirmed Japanese reports of a landing in Dutch Timor.

The communiqué said the Japanese were attacking Koepang in Timor, but were meeting with stout resistance.

The attacks on Bali and Timor, 600 miles farther east, were a dire threat to the Indies' lifeline from San Francisco and Darwin in Australia, but Dutch and allied defenders were greatly encouraged by the display of their air and sea power in the battle off Bali.

Yesterday, the communiqué said, the Japanese devoted themselves to trying to knock out the airports from which allied planes had struck so effectively.

All day the Japanese bombed and machine-gunned airdromes near Batavia, the capital that stands threatened by the advance down Sumatra, Buitenzorg, on the railway headquarters in the mountains, Jogjakarta, near the south coast, the naval base at Soerabaja and Malang near Bali. "Some damage was done here and there. Three or four Japanese fighters were shot down," the communiqué said. "There were only a few casualties."

Claim Town Captured
TOKYO (From Japanese broadcasts) Feb. 23.—(P)—Japanese forces, seeking to complete occupation of the island of Bali, off the eastern tip of Java, have captured the town of Denpasar, "an important strategic point" on the southern coast, imperial headquarters announced today. (Bendapasar, situated on the east side of a short peninsula jutting from the south shore of Bali, is about 70 miles from the nearest point on Java.)

(A Domei dispatch from Saigon, French Indo-China, reported meanwhile that Japanese planes had bombed the Burmese town of Pegu, about 50 miles north of Rangoon on the railway connecting with the Burma road.

Imperial headquarters announced today that Japanese warplanes shot down or destroyed on the ground 39 enemy aircraft in extensive weekend operations over Java and Burma.

Reputation High In Bombing
BANDONG, Java, Feb. 23.—(P)—American fliers have won the respect of their Dutch comrades and have established a high reputation as bombing experts in the Straits of Macassar, southern Sumatra and off Bali.

The American, Dutch, British and Australian fighter pilots have gained considerable experience in the battle for the Netherlands East Indies and are confident they can outfly and outfight any of the Japanese airmen, given equal material.

"Three hundred good fighters could turn the scales completely in favor of the allies," one American said today.

A Dutch officer commented: "These Americans are formidable foes to come up against when they're operating the giant Boeing Flying Fortresses. I would hate to be on a ship which was the target of American low-level bombing."

Lull Comes To Bitter Fighting In Philippines

"Absolutely fearless" and have made excellent fighting men of the Philippine Commonwealth army, the War Department said.

An Igorot company of perhaps 125 men had been wiped out to a man in a vain defense of a position on the rugged battle line. To restore the position, an attack was ordered by a tank unit supported by Igorot infantry eager to even the score.

Jungle foliage was so thick the American tank drivers could not see, so the Igorot commander mustered his men to the top, where they served as eyes for the drivers. Exposed targets, they went shouting into action, firing automatic pistols.

"Bataan has seen many wild mornings, but nothing to equal this," MacArthur said. "No quarter was asked and none was given. Always above the din of the battle rose the fierce shouts of the Igorots as they rode the tanks and fired their pistols."

"No gun, no thickets, only death itself could stop that mad rush. Of all the bloody spots on the peninsula that proved to be the bloodiest."

"When the attack was over the remnants of the tanks and of the Igorots was still there but the 20th Japanese Infantry regiment was completely annihilated."

The regiment numbered 1,200 to 1,500 men, officials estimated. MacArthur told an assembly of his officers that in his military career he had never "known the equal of those Igorots riding the tanks," and advised the officers that "When you tell that story stand in tribute to those gallant Igorots."

Damonte Taborda was said to have proposed the use of pistols. Rottjer, claiming the right as offended party to choose the weapons, was said to have demanded sabers.

lumps the most important victory reports in an occasional special communiqué. Today's regular communiques at midnight and at midday in Moscow went little beyond generalities. On the other hand, the German high command—presumably to steal in advance the thunder of any big Russian victory announcement—repeated in some detail previous claims of heavy Russian losses in "fruitless" attacks.

From Jan. 1 to Feb. 20, the Germans said, 56,806 Russian prisoners had been taken. "The bloody losses of the enemy represent many times that figure," Berlin boasted, then gave a list of Russian material seized or destroyed in the same period.

Darwin Under Military Rule

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 23.—(P)—The northern part of the northern territory of Australia, including the bomb-scarred port Darwin, was placed under military control today, War Minister Francis Forde announced.

Towns and the territory as far south as Birdum, southern terminus of a railway from Darwin, were included, Exchange Telegraph said.

From Birdum to Alice Springs, a 600-mile all-weather highway links with another railway which extends to Melbourne, Sydney, Adelaide and other centers in the more heavily populated areas of the south.

Darwin had two heavy air raids last week, and the alarms were sounded a third time. Four miles of the southbound railway were damaged by Japanese bombs, but quickly repaired.

Open Radio Link To New Zealand

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—Assurances that their nations would fight together and achieve victory were exchanged today by President Roosevelt and Peter Fraser, prime minister of New Zealand, in messages opening a direct radio-telegram circuit between the United States and the British Dominion.

Each spoke of the bonds of friendship between the two countries and Mr. Roosevelt transmitted his assurance that "We shall leave nothing undone to achieve our common objective of freeing our world once and for all of the forces of aggression." Fraser told the president that the new radio link should promote cooperation in the prosecution of a common task: "The achievement of a complete and lasting victory over the enemies of freedom and democracy."

WPA To Aid In Civilian Defense

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23.—(P)—W. Judson Gray, WPA manager in the northeast Missouri district, said today arrangements had been made for use of WPA personnel and facilities to assist local civilian defense groups in event of air raids, sabotage or other disaster in the area.

Gray reported there are 9,600 WPA workers in the district which includes St. Louis and 25 counties. Among the employees are construction workers, cooks, trained nursing aids and persons qualified to form first aid and rehabilitation corps and operate WPA garment factories.

He said arrangements were complete to notify key personnel on a moment's notice and that he had been granted sweeping authority to cut red tape to the bone, make needed purchases on the spot and work employees unlimited hours if an emergency arose.

FBI Course To Patrolmen

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 23.—(P)—Highway patrolmen from every troop in the state are meeting in Kansas City today for an FBI-taught course in emergency traffic handling which they will pass on to a 600-man auxiliary patrol to be organized soon.

The auxiliary volunteers, to be taken mostly from Civilian Defense rolls and the American Legion, will be trained in emergency traffic direction and other police work. They will serve without pay.

Patrol Supt. M. Stanley Ginn said the groups would be organized in 30 zones over the state, each with about 20 members. Legion members will be accepted regardless of age, others must be between 24 and 30 years old.

The force will be called out only in emergencies, will not have regular police authority nor carry arms and will not be given full patrol commissions. Instead they will get identification credentials for themselves and their cars.

Ginn said he hoped at least half the men would have automobiles equipped with car radios which can be tuned to patrol broadcasts.

Hopes Diminish On Rangoon

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(P)—British hopes of holding Rangoon against superior Japanese forces were regarded by observers here tonight as considerably diminished, and with them hopes of preventing invasion of all Burma.

Very little official information on the fighting was available and some informed sources suggested that the cables from Rangoon might have been cut.

The last word was that British troops were fighting somewhere between the Bilin and Sittang rivers, the latter only 20 miles east of the Rangoon-Lashio railway which feeds the Burma road.

The view that the British soon may be forced to fall back upon India's defenses was advanced because of the speed with which the Japanese forced the Salween and Bilin river lines.

The break through the Bilin defenses, where the British were said to have constructed "a series of strong points," indicated that the invasion forces had been reinforced with troops diverted from Malaya after the fall of Singapore.

The rivers on which the British had counted to slow the invasion were said to have been narrow and sluggish because of the present dry season at the time the Japanese crossed them. Informed sources said that the Sittang, last natural barrier to Rangoon, could not be expected to be more formidable.

Bosworth Has A Destructive Fire

CARROLLTON, Mo., Feb. 23.—(P)—Fire swept through four business buildings at Bosworth, Mo., 17 miles northeast of here, early today, causing damage estimated at $40,000.

The fire, originating in the City Cafe, quickly spread through the Bosworth Sentinel, edited and owned by John Preston; the Davis Grocery Company and the Bosworth Beauty Shop.

Although the most of the town's 612 residents turned out to fight the flames they were unable to remove any of the contents of the buildings. Origin of the fire was undetermined.

Check Report of Old Munitions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—The navy department said today that Rear Admiral J. H. P. Blandy, chief of ordnance, was investigating a report that ammunition supplied to an American warship operating in the Pacific was old and ineffective.

The report came from Martin Agronsky, an NBC commentator broadcasting from Sydney, Australia. No official report of such a deficiency has been received, the navy said, but Blandy began his inquiry on the basis of Agronsky's broadcast.

Agronsky said he was told by a navy air lieutenant that the anti-aircraft ammunition on a warship escorting U. S. troops was issued in 1930 and 1931 and had failed to fire uniformly enough for gunners to work out a fire pattern necessary for effective anti-aircraft work.

Agronsky, speaking from Sydney, Australia, Saturday, credited his information to an unnamed navy air lieutenant, NBC said in making public these quotations: "The pilot told me he had come ashore from an American warship, which I cannot name. "The warship was conveying American troops ships somewhere in Java. When the convoy was six hours at sea, the warship picked up a broadcast from Tokyo actually describing both the make up of the convoy and its destination. Two hours later 32 Jap bombers appeared overhead and bombed the convoy."

"I asked the lieutenant if they had shot down any Japs. He answered it was so hard to hit the Japs with the ammunition on board. I asked him why. "He explained that the anti-aircraft ammunition was 1930 and 1931 issue and when it had been tested a year ago, it was found to be only 30 per cent efficient."

India's Powers To Be Enlarged

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(P)—At least partial realization of India's long and often bloody demands for independence was predicted by British sources today after a rapid sequence of weekend events which portended a radical change in Britain's attitude toward her 400,000,000 subjects there.

Two developments particularly buoyed India's hopes: 1. The farewell of Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who has been visiting in India. Speaking presumably with the consent of Britain and the United States and apparently addressing himself to the British, he declared dramatically Saturday: "The vast majority of the world's opinion is in full sympathy with India's aspiration for freedom."

2. Informed British sources asserted yesterday that Prime Minister Churchill planned to enlarge India's powers of self-government and send a cabinet representative there to try to "put the India problem on a more satisfactory footing."

There was as yet no precise indications of how far Britain would go toward granting autonomy, but the government was said to be planning tentatively for an Indian national administration headed by Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, former president of the Nationalist Congress party in which Mohandas K. Gandhi has been the guiding spirit.

The warship was conveying American troops ships somewhere in Java. When the convoy was six hours at sea, the warship picked up a broadcast from Tokyo actually describing both the make up of the convoy and its destination. Two hours later 32 Jap bombers appeared overhead and bombed the convoy.

"I asked the lieutenant if they had shot down any Japs. He answered it was so hard to hit the Japs with the ammunition on board. I asked him why. "He explained that the anti-aircraft ammunition was 1930 and 1931 issue and when it had been tested a year ago, it was found to be only 30 per cent efficient."

The commentator said the latest communications from the British commander in Burma stressed his appreciation of the fine cooperation of the RAF and the American volunteer group of fliers.

Situation Unchanged
NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(P)—The All-India radio reported that the "military situation remains unchanged" today in Burma with fighting continuing between the Bilin and Sittang rivers.

The broadcast, heard by CBS, said the British forces falling back toward the Sittang under strong rear guard action were inflicting heavy casualties on the Japanese.

Propaganda Before Speech Of President

Roosevelt Tonight To Make Address On World War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—The White House said today the Japanese radio at Tokyo was "putting on its biggest propaganda campaign, for the purpose of tearing down" in advance the address President Roosevelt will deliver tonight on the war.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, read to reporters a memorandum from a government information agency to this effect.

Four times, Early said, the Tokyo radio broadcast this morning in English. He said it had reported that the president was dodging all questions at his press conference and had placed responsibility for American entry into the war directly on the chief executive.

One statement picked up from Tokyo, Early said, was that:

"Good American citizens should know that the statements of President Roosevelt, including his popular fireside chats, and the announcements of the followers of FDR, are all got-up stories or tricks, cunningly set up by them in order to conceal the facts or the truth."

At the White House today the president made no formal engagements as he penciled changes into the address he was preparing for broadcast tonight at 9 p. m. CWT.

The president, Early said, was pleased that newspapers had printed world maps, saying that this should contribute to a better understanding of the speech and of the scope of the war.

Mr. Roosevelt devoted much of his weekend to work on the speech, giving considerable time to analyses of the latest information from the army and navy, from members of the United Nations, and from other intelligence sources.

The address tonight will be his third major broadcast since the war's start.

Listening with thousands of others will be Washington birthday dinners at about 60 Democratic party gatherings throughout the country. Contributors to the party's campaign fund are invited to these functions, usually held on Jackson day early in January.

Party officials predicted the celebrations would raise more than enough to erase the $600,000 deficit left from the 1940 campaign. The main dinner—for $100 contributors—will be held here, with National Chairman Edward J. Flynn presiding and Vice-President Wallace, Speaker Rayburn and Sgt. Alvin York, hero of World War I, the principal speakers.

Barbara Jean Hughes, 5 year old Negro child, died suddenly Saturday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, 412 North Washington avenue, and after an autopsy performed today by Dr. W. T. Bishop, the coroner, he stated death, in his opinion, was due to ptomaine poisoning.

After the call to order by the president, the song leader, Mrs. Dee Powell, led in singing "America," "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Faith of our Founders." As the secretary called the roll members present answered with courtesies toward the flag. After a few items of business were disposed of the president turned the meeting over to Mrs. Albert Runge, program chairman, who directed the candle-lighting service in which ten women participated. Mary Frances McCurdy sang a song accompanied by Norma Jean Leicher. Pupils of the school presented a short radio drama prepared by the Council of Civilian Defense. At the conclusion of the program the hostesses for the evening served refreshments.

'... Won't Be Back Till It's Over Over There'

American soldiers and nurses, life-belted and looking Erin-ward, must have thought often of that last A. E. F. as their troop transports rolled through choppy waters of the North Atlantic. . . must have sensed their history-making roles in the first A. E. F. of World War II.

Society and Clubs

Osage chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, enjoyed their annual "patriotic" candlelight banquet, Friday evening, at the Country club, in celebration of Washington's birthday. Hundreds of the members were special guests. It was a lovely affair, with a large assemblage of representative men and women.

Guests were welcomed in the reception room of the club by the following members of the official board, Mrs. Frank S. Leach, Miss Nina Harris, Mrs. J. C. Saunders, Mrs. A. M. Hoffman, Mrs. W. H. Powell, Mrs. H. E. Lindstrom, Miss Jessie Blair, Mrs. Elza Berry and Miss Lura McCluney.

At the appointed hour the guests were ushered into the banquet room and seated at beautifully decorated tables, formed into the victory V. The speakers table was replete with a center floral piece, tall silver candelabra, each holding five red, white and blue tapers. Small logs, bearing flags, lent a festive atmosphere. The long tables were beautiful and colorful, with flags, flowers and hearts. The favors were unique, hand made, and on the center of each was a heart bearing the insignia of the D. A. A., a tiny spinning wheel on a nest red celophane, tied with red, white and blue ribbon.

The following served as ushers, Mesdames A. J. Campbell, E. W. Kettleson, Roy Petty, Linden L. Jones, and Misses Maurine Harris, Rebie Shaeffer, Ruth Fuels.

As shawls were the theme of the program, all of the women receiving wore beautiful shawls. With the spirit of pioneer days combined with the streamlined spirit of today, airplanes were suspended from the chandelier and on the side of the room, poised, ready to fly. There were bomber planes, fighter planes, seagoing and carrier planes, all made by twelve year old Frank Urban, who has been making planes for the collection, modern planes made perfect to the type.

The Regent, Mrs. Frank S. Leach, presided over a most interesting and patriotic banquet program. Mrs. W. E. Hurlbut gave the invocation. The Star Spangled Banner was sung, and the pledge of allegiance to the flag given, Judge Dimmitt Hoffman was presented and gave a talk on heroes of the past, Washington, Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Patrick Henry and others whose gallant spirits handed down, from generation to generation, the inspiration that inspired them. He told of their intense patriotism, of their sufferings and privations and poverty, as fought, bled and died for the new America.

On a table in the center of the room was a reproduction of the Battle of Lexington, the first battle of the Revolutionary war, in miniature figures. There was the Old South church, the home of Emerson from whose upper window his mother viewed the battle. The famous stone bridge was over the Concord river, and there were soldiers, cannons and minute men. C. F. Scotten told graphically the story of that historic battle and in a realistic manner he described the "shot that was heard around the world." He pointed to the two crosses that showed the spot where the first soldiers of that battle were killed and buried.

Guy T. Callender spoke of old and valuable documents and what they mean today. He read a letter written in 1778, written by one of his ancestors who was with Washington's army at the time of the Revolution. The original letter is in the Virginia museum.

Mrs. C. F. Scotten gave a talk on shawls, telling of their beauty and value, sometimes costing as much as $12,000 each. She mentioned the priceless paisleys, Shetland wools, cashmeres and embroidered shawls, and Mrs. Elza Berry gave a fascinating story of fans. The talks formed a background for the lovely display of shawls, fans, hats and parasols that followed.

Mrs. Lindstrom gave a toast to the husbands.

D. S. Lamm spoke on the modern day heroes, telling of the marvelous work of the Americans in the first world war, of the heroic stand of General MacArthur today, and of the American boys who are prepared and are fighting our battles right now on many battle fronts. He paid a tribute to George Whiteman, the Sedalia youth who made the supreme sacrifice at Pearl Harbor. Mr. Lamm, who knew the youth personally, designated him as typical of thousands of boys now in the service of our country. He told of the obligation of American men and women at this time of critical stress and anxiety as the nation is plunged into the second world war.

Miss Elieta Wheeler, senior at Smith-Cotton high school, was a guest of honor. She was selected by the teachers and student body as the outstanding girl of the year and as such is eligible as a candidate to represent Missouri at the D. A. R. Congress in Washington in April. Mrs. George Dugan introduced Miss Wheeler.

Three D. A. R. members, in quaint old-fashioned costumes, delighted the guests with a fashion parade. Mrs. Elza Berry wore a paisley shawl handed down in her family for more than 100 years. Mrs. Lindstrom wore another priceless paisley, owned by Mrs. Asa Elliott, who lives south of Sedalia, while Mrs. A. J. Campbell wore a lovely old shawl from India, owned by Mrs. W. H. Powell. Each of the three wore cunning tiny bonnets, the property of Mrs. Hurlbut. Mrs. Berry carried a carriage parasol, belonging to Mrs. P. L. Strole, which was more than 160 years old.

Music for the evening was in charge of Mrs. Arthur Bratten and covered periods of American history. Mr. Abe Rosenthal and Mrs. J. M. Rodeman played a violin duet, "Navarro" by Sarsote. Mrs. Raymond Peterson was accompanist.

"The Way Worn Traveler" and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" favorites of George Washington were sung by Mrs. Bratten and Mrs. Dana Demand, as were Yankee Doodle, and other war songs, with Miss Mary Schrankler accompanist.

The shawls were modeled by Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. E. W. Kettleson, Mrs. Elza Berry, Mrs. Carl Urban, Miss Ruth Fuels and Miss Maurine Harris under the direction of Mrs. Urban. There were shawls from all around the world, and they were displayed with charm and grace. Miss Sena Maas, who has a collection of 57 shawls, loaned twenty-two that were shown here.

The party closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and God Bless America.

Miss Jane Bozworth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Bozworth, of this city, was named to the fall honor roll for 1941-42 issued by the office of the registrar at the Saint Mary college, Leavenworth, Kas.

Miss Bozworth was named with eleven other sophomores. An honor student, she is also a member of the Catholic Association for International Peace at Saint Mary.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—A highly interesting transaction whereby the Republican National committee-man from Oregon sold the Government a big tract of land for a new government aluminum plant has just come to the attention of the Justice Department.

Officially the name of Ralph H. Calk, Republican National committeeman, did not appear in the transaction.

However, the records show that Ralph Calk, who owned the tract of land, deeded it to the Portland Mortgage company, of which he is president and chief owner, for the nominal sum of $10. Later the Portland Mortgage company sold the land to the government for $80,000.

One other interesting phase of the whole business was the fact that the Interior Department was dead opposed to this location of the new aluminum plant. The plant is one of the wartime aluminum factories built by the government, but to be operated by Alcoa for the production of emergency aluminum. It will get power from Bonneville Dam.

The Interior Department, which operates Bonneville Dam, proposed that the plant be located near the dam. This would save expensive power transmission lines, also would put the plant further inland, away from coastal attack.

The Interior Department put up a vigorous argument on this point. But the Alcoa people, plus certain interests in the War Department argued for the other site. The debate continued some time. But in the end, Mr. Calk's Mortgage company made a lush sale.

Nazi Sabotage

In fixing blame for the Normandie fire and other suspicious tragedies, it might be well to review the sabotage fire at Kingsland, N. J., in 1917, for which an international court held Germany responsible.

The Kingsland plant was making shells for Russia at the rate of 3,000,000 per month. Later it was testified that a workman named Wozniak had spilled a pan of alcohol over his bench just before the blaze started. There was also evidence regarding the use of incendiary pencils—pencils containing one-half sulphuric acid, one-half chlorate of potassium and sugar; so when the pencil is broken and the two parts mixed, a white hot flame spurts forth.

The U. S. government charged that Wozniak, a Russian who had served in the Austrian army, was hired by a German agent named Himsch to use incendiary pencils to start the fire.

Today, Wozniak is still in the United States. Some time ago he applied for American citizenship, but was refused on the advice of the State Department. There is no suspicion that he has been engaged in sabotage in this war, but there is suspicion that the same method of several dozen incendiary pencils might have been thrown into the staterooms of the Normandie.

Gas Masks For Senators

Jim Landis, new Civil Defense administrator, was testifying before the Senate Appropriations committee of which Senator Carter Glass of Virginia is chairman. Glass has known Landis for years, used to heckle him when, as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Landis was heckling Wall Street. Now they are more friendly.

This time Landis testified regarding Civil Defense appropriations—fire fighting equipment, first aid, gas masks. The gas masks evoked quite a debate. Finally, as Landis concluded and left the room, he met Senator Glass in the corridor.

"I had to leave," said the Senator, pointing to his arguing colleagues. "I had no gas mask."

NOTE: Landis is weeding out Mrs. R.'s and LaGuardia's deadwood, bringing order out of Civil Defense chaos.

mestic beet-sugar producers, last year forced a reduction of sugar-beet acreage of from 17 to 20 percent; also that cane which would have yielded 300,000 tons of sugar was left to rot in Puerto Rican fields because processing was prohibited.

Sugar producers on the other hand, vigorously urged that domestic quotas be lifted to permit maximum output. But the Agriculture moguls refused to heed these warnings. Led by Secretary Claude Wickard, they insisted the United States had ample sugar supplies for all needs—and they kept on churning this refrain right up to a few weeks ago when Wickard, as a guest speaker on Mrs. Roosevelt's Sunday night radio program, completely changed his tune and broke the news that sugar would have to be rationed.

Wickard bases the shortage on two grounds: (1) heavy demands from our allies, particularly Russia, whose sugar producing region has been devastated by the Nazis; (2) greatly reduced imports from the Philippines and Hawaii.

Wickard is correct about our allies, but only partially so on the islands.

The Philippines are out, but not Hawaii. Large munitions shipments are constantly going to these islands, and instead of coming back empty, the ships can carry sugar.

Agriculture Department tycoons are making a big ado about how essential their activities are to the war effort. One essential might be less bungling in unrestricting farm production.

NOTE: Puerto Rico now has on hand, and waiting to be ground, more sugar-cane than it is allowed to process under the production quota set by the Agriculture Department.

Mongrum Is Winner In Open

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23.—(P)—Lloyd Mongrum stands second place among the leading money winners in the National Professional Golfers Association this year, but he will need some more big winnings before he catches up with Ben Hogan, still far out in front.

Mongrum, who pocketed $1,000 yesterday by winning the New Orleans $5,000 open, now has a total of $3,108 but Hogan leads the field with $5,958, according to figures of Fred Corcoran, manager of the association.

Others in the big ten of the year are Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., $2,991; Lawson Little, San Francisco, $2,351; Chick Harbert, Battle Creek, Mich., $2,261; Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., $2,174; Jimmy Thompson, $1,950; Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Forty-two Out On Tigers' Team

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 23.—(P)—No. 42, worn by Missouri's all-American Darold Jenkins in gridiron wars, will never be seen on the field again by Tiger fans according to an announcement today by the athletic board of Missouri university.

Instead, permanently retired, the numeral will take its place in the Missouri hall of fame alongside the famous 44 of Paul Christman, great quarterback of 1939 and '40. Jenkins, regular center on the Missouri team for two seasons, was picked on 16 all-America teams, surpassing even Christman in that respect.

Guilty Verdict On Slush Fund

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23.—(P)—Union Electric Company and its former president, Louis H. Egan, were convicted yesterday of violating the corrupt practices section of the Federal Utilities Holding Company Act.

The government charged that a fund of $591,000 was raised several years prior to 1938 for political contributions to candidates, office holders and politicians.

The defense contended that neither Egan nor the company knew of the fund, authorized it nor participated in its destruction. They said the blame rested on Frank J. Boehm and Albert C. Lawn, former vice presidents who testified for the government.

Maximum penalty possible for the company is a $10,000 fine on each of eight counts, and for Egan is a two year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

Seven of the counts against the utility charge the raising and distribution of funds intended to gain favor and buy influence of politicians.

The eighth, and the only count on which Egan was judged guilty charged conspiracy to violate the act.

Federal Judge George H. Moore set sentencing for February 27.

Union Electric is a subsidiary of North American and operates in Missouri, Illinois and Iowa.

Armed Group Just Fox Hunters

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—(P)—Six squads of state and county police responded with alacrity to an alarm sounded by Sgt. Joseph Briatti that 100 rough looking men, carrying shotguns, were lining up at a suburban highway intersection.

Briatti had received the report by an excited motorist, who suggested the men might be fifth columnists.

"It looks," the motorist said, "like they're getting ready to cross a field to the power line and the air line beacon there. Anything can happen!"

When the dozen policemen arrived at the scene they saw several cars unloading men at 25 yard intervals. They fitted the description given by the motorist—dressed like farmers and with shotguns. They deployed along the highway in military fashion.

With these ultra-modern tables, reproductions of old pine chairs are used.

There were not 100, but about 30.

Outnumbered, the officers also deployed. Then, with guns ready, Sgt. Briatti strode forward, grasped the nearest man and demanded an explanation. It was immediately given:

"We're huntin' foxes that've been killin' our chickens. We just line up and walk across the field to drive 'em from cover. They're suckers for it."

The officers returned to their home bases.

Arrest of Aliens In Mass Raids

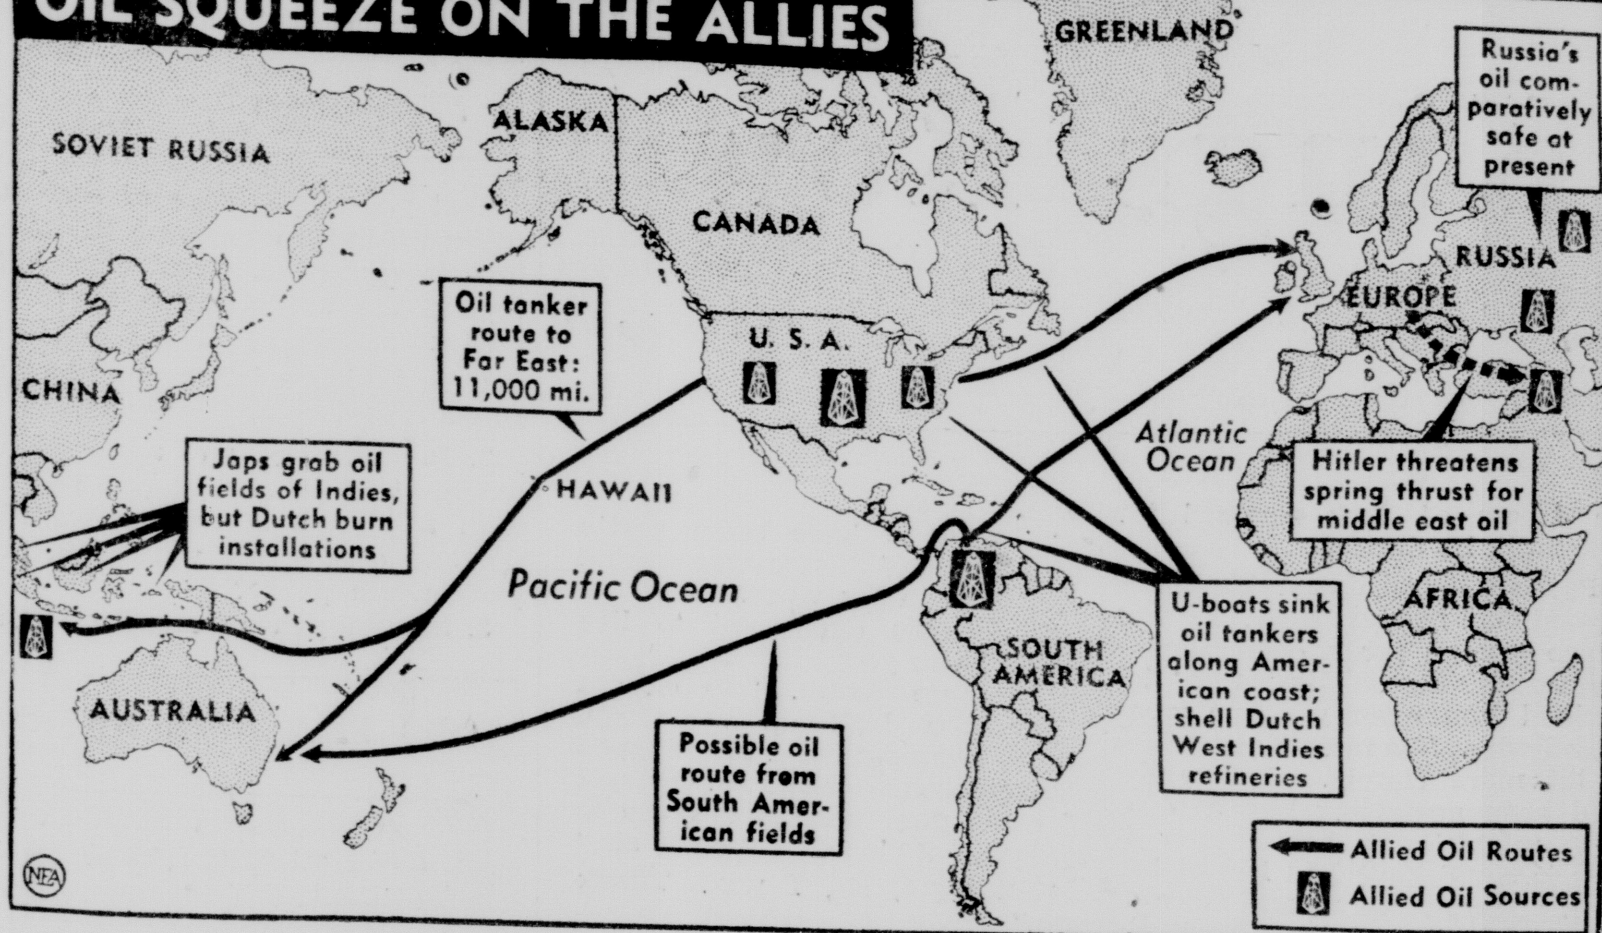

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—(P)—Mass raids that reached into cities and hamlets in four Pacific coast states and into Texas yielded approximately 675 Japanese, German and Italian nationals over the weekend.

Moving night and day along a front reaching from Canada to Mexico, FBI agents and other officers took into custody aliens described as potentially dangerous and seized vast quantities of contraband.

They raided 53 northern California communities and arrested 248 enemy aliens. They seized more than 200 in the Los Angeles area with its vital aircraft plants. San Diego, an important defense base, yielded 35 more. In addition there were more than 90 arrests in Seattle, 13 in Portland, five in Arizona, and 75 in Houston, Tex.

'Contraband' seized included more than 80,000 rounds of ammunition, hundreds of firearms and various explosives. There were American naval signal flags, military uniforms and an oddly-built therapeutic treatment machine capable of sending short distance radio messages.

Fischers Wed To Fischers

Miss Mary Fischer, of Kansas City, Kas., and Clemens Fisher, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Fisher, 322 East Fourteenth street, were married at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pfeiffer, 1300 South Monticau avenue.

The bride and bridegroom are not related, and a strange incident in connection with the marriage is that the bride's mother was also named Fischer, before her marriage to her father, and they were not related.

The bridegroom met the bride of Saturday evening, when she came to Sedalia some months ago to attend a shower given for Miss Beulah Hook, who is now Mrs. Robert Sterling. She is a registered nurse and for some time has been in charge of the office of a well known Kansas City physician on the Plaza.

The bride wore a spring suit of gray, with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias. She was attended by Mrs. Pfeiffer and the bridegroom was attended by Mr. Pfeiffer.

Mr. and Mrs. Fischer are spending a few days in Kansas City, and upon their return will be temporarily at home at 322 East Fourteenth street. Mr. Fischer is in business with his father, both plumbers.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Archias, of Fourth street and Park avenue, accompanied by their cousin, Mrs. Nannette Hopkinson, of Milwaukee, Wis., arrived home Sunday afternoon from Galveston, Texas, where they spent a week, and visited other places of interest in the south.

Serial Story . . .

Kings Row

by Henry Bellamann

NEA Service Inc.

THE STORY: Orphaned Parris Mitchell is reading medicine with Dr. Tower, town mystery, wondering why Tower keeps daughter Cassandra so close to home. His best friend, Drake McHugh, talks boyishly of plans to marry Louise Gordon, daughter of town's leading physician. Parris thinks of childhood sweetheart Renee; plans, at suggestion of overseer Tom Carr, to study treatment of mental ill when he goes to Vienna. Madame von Eln, adored grandmother of Parris, hasn't long to live. He does not know it. Other characters: half-wit Benny Singer, hired by Madame after lawyer Skeenington saves him from jail after bullying by Eulmer Green's gang; tomboy Randy Monaghan; fearsome Dr. Gordon.

A SECRET FROM PARRIS

CHAPTER XI

MADAME VON ELN sat by the fire. It was late, and Parris had gone upstairs to study. She knew that Anna was in the kitchen waiting for her to go to bed. Tonight Anna would have to be patient.

The room was warm, though the fire was low now. The sound of the wind rose and fell in long sighs and howls. Madame wanted to think. She shook her head. No, she didn't want to think. She tried very hard to be reminiscent, but it was not successful. The uneventful years of her girlhood; a first marriage and the birth of Parris; mother; the second marriage to the picturesque but unstable Franz von Eln; his death; her own first struggle; the ensuing poverty; the deaths of Parris' father and mother—how many deaths one counted in a lifetime!—and these happiest years of all her life with Parris to watch over.

SHE called Anna. Anna turned to the fire and raked the ashes from beneath the grate. "Yes, Madame?"

"Well, now, Anna, I was just wondering what would become of you when—I'm not here any more?"

"Oh, Madame—" "Have you any money, Anna?" "Yes, Madame. I have saved everything. I—shall—should be able to take care of myself. But who will look after Parris?"

Madame drew her shoulders together a little as though a chill draft struck her. "He will have to look after himself, Anna. He's a good boy—I suppose."

"Has Dr. Gordon said—?" "He gives me one year, or two."

"What can I do for you, Madame, quickly?" "Nothing, Anna. Just go on as if everything were the same as always. I don't want Parris to be disturbed."

What was Parris like, deeper down than the surface? What did he dream of, look forward to? What did he desire?

Parris was less lively. He talked a good deal but less gaily. He was—she hunted for a description—he was darker. Yes; that described him exactly. She wondered why. She must observe him a bit more closely. Maybe she had been neglecting him a little. It might have been better if Parris could have had less of her own "foreign" ways, and more of the Mitchell manner. She knew that people commented on her bearing and conduct and thought her peculiar and alien. Well, she had left a wide circle of freedom, and the two women went slowly up the stairs.

Parris came to his door, frowning against the light of the unshaded lamp Anna carried. Madame shook her head. "You are up late."

"I'm up late every night, Grandmere—you know that."

"Well, well. But you must get your sleep. Good night."

He kissed her on both cheeks. "Good night. Good night, Anna." He sighed as he returned to his room. He was tired.

Parris worked hard throughout the winter. He felt that he had moved completely into a new world. He did indeed look thin and a little pale by April.

Dr. Tower, who consistently maintained an impersonal attitude toward his pupil, noticed the changes.

"Better ease up on your work a little, young man."

"Oh, I'm quite all right, sir."

"You don't look it. Leave your notebooks today and get out somewhere. Why don't you walk? Look up some of your friends—"

Parris looked straight into Dr. Tower's eyes for a moment. There was a barely perceptible softening of the doctor's hard, bright gaze.

"What is it?" Then he added jocularly: "Have you no friends?"

Parris did not smile. "No, sir," he said simply.

Dr. Tower flushed a little, whether with embarrassment or annoyance at the turn of the conversation, Parris did not know.

Dr. Tower looked out of the window. "You get used to it."

Parris did not reply to this. Dr. Tower looked back after a moment and went on, almost angrily: "Anyway, there is nobody around here for you. You seem to have a mind—hope I'm not mistaken about it; I'd hate to waste my time."

"I used to have some pretty good friends." There was a kind of protest in his voice.

"Well—you ought not to live too much to yourself." Dr. Tower spoke more gently. "Go on out today and look up somebody. Knock around a little." He slapped the notebooks on the table. "Forget this and your piano for a couple of days, cut classes, get some air."

"All right, sir. I will. Thank you."

AS he came in sight of the Livingstone house he saw Drake coming out of the drive. He had a Molly, a fat old mare belonging to Mrs. Livingstone, hitched to a shiny new buggy.

"Hey! Hey, Drake!" Drake was about to turn in the other direction, when he heard him. He stopped.

"Where you going?" "Nowhere. Just trying the new buggy. Say, how you been? What all you been doing?"

Parris took a deep breath. "Oh, working hard."

"Why aren't you in school today?" "No classes today. Dr. Tower sent me out, said I needed—said I needed to see you."

"Aw, now!" "Almost. Said I better go out and see some of my friends."

"Let's go to the country. How about it?" Drake looked pleased. Parris settled back. The new buggy had rubber tires and rolled softly along the macadamized street.

"How's Louise, Drake?" Drake grinned. "Fine. How's Cassie?"

"I don't know."

"Say! Do you mean to sit there and tell me you ain't done anything about her yet?"

"Well," Parris felt that he ought to justify himself for something—he was not quite sure for what. He swallowed hard.

"Well, I don't ever see her."

"I bet I'd find a way. Say, boy, Cassie Tower is—well—well, I'd see her in spite of her old man. What does he do, keep her locked up?"

"I see her on the porch once in a while, but I'm kind of afraid to stop."

As Drake talked Parris felt his spirits rise. There was a contagion in Drake's exuberance. A tension of excitement arose in his throat. He talked, too, more and more freely. It was a fine feeling to have a friend—an especially fine feeling to discover that Drake was really his friend as much now as ever.

Mr. Vogel paid tribute in his talk to John S. McGraw, of this city, who was present at the affair, telling of his splendid work for many years in the interest of the Knights of Columbus.

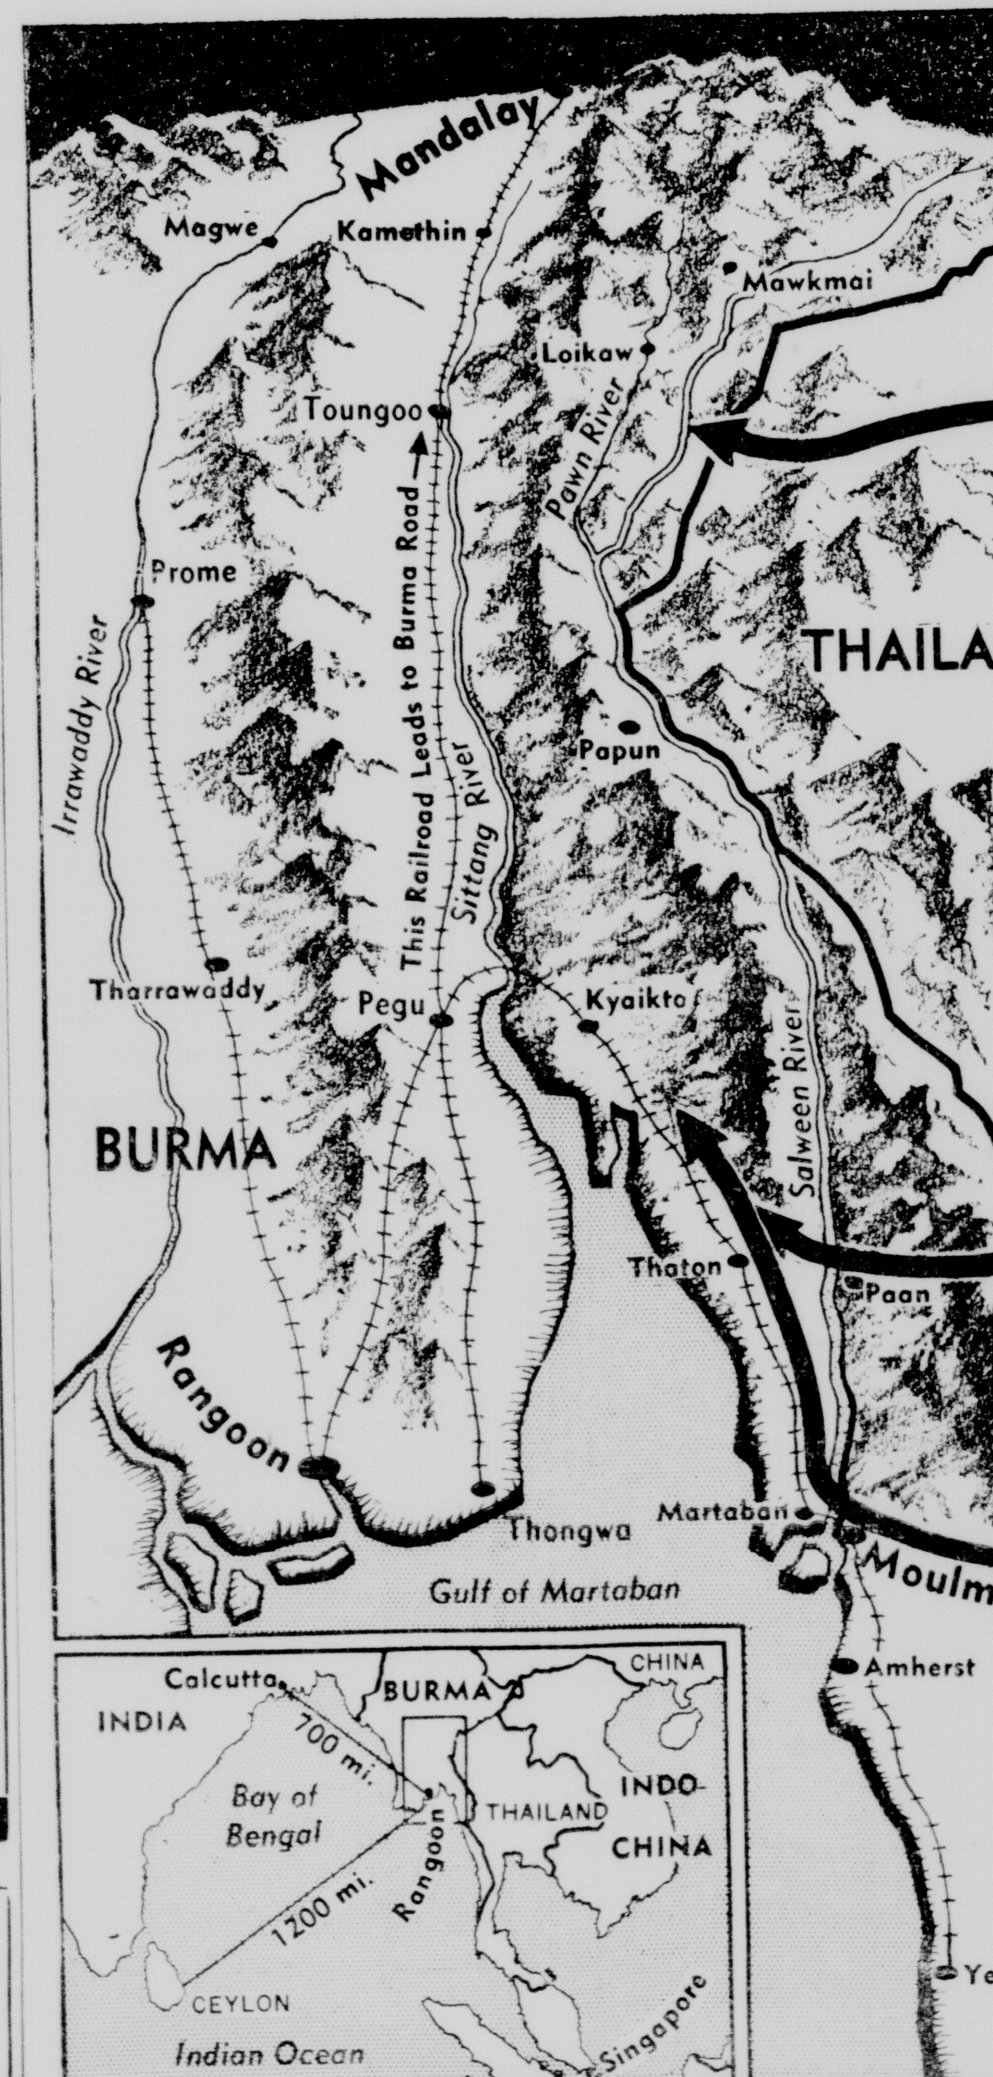

In speaking of the organization of the order Mr. Vogel said that sixty years ago Sunday night Father McGivney and some faithful co-workers were seated in his parish house giving serious thought to the all important business of presenting their request for a charter to the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut. Catholic organizations and organizations of Catholics, he said, were not a new venture sixty years ago, for they had organizations of the laity within the church in the very early days of its history. Never, he said, into the organization of the Knights of Columbus, however, was there an organization of the laity that was international in its scope and influence. Today they operate all over the North American continent and its insular possessions, and have one purpose and one purpose only, Service to God and country.

Speaking of the Circle of Columbian Squires Mr. Vogel said the most essential requirement in sponsoring and maintaining a Circle of Columbian Squires is to have five or six Knights of Columbus who are truly and sincerely interested in boys, and who will spare two or three evenings a month for their welfare.
